

Saje Natural Wellness x Jillian Harris Limited Edition Ultrasonic Diffuser Collaboration
Introducing aromaOm Ultrasonic Diffuser Jillian Harris Edition with Happy Place Diffuser Blend Collection

VANCOUVER, BC. (Sept. 18, 2018) – Saje Natural Wellness announced today its first ever collaboration with Jillian Harris, Canadian lifestyle influencer and interior designer. The limited edition aromaOm Ultrasonic Diffuser is inspired by Jillian Harris’ Pacific Northwest roots symbolizing nature’s rustic beauty paired with a simplistic design inviting you to create an ambiance of wellness in any space.

“We’re thrilled to launch our first partnership with Jillian Harris and are passionate about bringing both wellness and style into your homes,” says Kiara Leblanc, Chief Product & Creative Officer at Saje Natural Wellness. “It was important for us to collaborate with someone who not only shares a strong connection to nature but also an eye for design.”

The powerful influence of nature is reflected throughout the limited-edition ultrasonic diffuser effortlessly weaving classic yet clean lines with traditional designs and an added touch of femininity. The aromaOm Ultrasonic Diffuser and Happy Place diffuser blend collection helps freshen the air you breathe with the vitality of nature by bringing the power of 100% plant-derived essential oils into your space.

“Wellness is sharing the little moments with the ones you love,” says Jillian Harris. “As a mom, wife and designer this starts with finding – and designing – your happy place. For me, partnering with Saje Natural Wellness was the perfect opportunity to combine my favorite wellness-inspired elements into a tangible product.”

Available for a limited time at Saje Natural Wellness retail locations across North America and online, the diffuser will launch September 18, 2018 with $20,000 of sales being donated to Mamas for Mamas – a non-profit organization that provides ongoing support to low income mothers and children. A place near and dear to Jillian’s heart, the passion project first began in 2017 when Jillian and her team design partnered with the organization to renovate their headquarters in Kelowna, BC creating a vibrant and warm atmosphere for the generous community members volunteering their time and the lucky families seeking support to gather.

“It’s hard enough being a parent without the stress of clothing or food insecurity, lack of appropriate mental health care and everything else that can easily fall through the cracks in our busy society,” says Shannon Christensen, Founder and Executive Director of Mamas for Mamas. “The generous contributions from community members, enthusiastic donors and proceeds from unique collaborations like this, reflect the commitment to helping further our mission to ensure a future where no Mamas – or kids – are left behind.”
